Wednesday, August 20, 2014

TORONTO, ON – On Monday, August 18, 2014, members of the AHEPA Toronto Family putted in the annual AHEPA Toronto Charity Golf Classic at the Meadowbrook Golf and Country Club. The funds raised went towards the annual Academic Scholarships, the Schizophrenia Society of Ontario, the Greek relief efforts, and the reintroduction of the Greek Studies Program at the University of Toronto – which will include Greek language, Modern Greek history, and Modern Greek politics starting this September 2014.

The AHEPA Toronto Charity Golf Classic welcomed the CEO of the Schizophrenia Society of Ontario, Mary Alberti, to the golf event. “Fundraising for a cause like the Schizophrenia Society of Ontario allows for a positive difference in the lives of the people both living with and effected by schizophrenia”, states Constantine Politis, AHEPA Toronto President.

The tournament entry fee included lunch, snacks on the course, dinner, and golf. There were numerous contests and prizes such as courtside Toronto Raptors tickets, Toronto Blue Jays Dugout tickets, a Kypreos 1994 Stanley Cup Jersey, golf bags, cash prizes etc., along with two grand prizes: a 3 year car lease on an Infinity, and a $5,000 trip to Greece.

The winners of the golf tournament with a score of 57 were: Doug Drysdale, Roy Pugh, Bill Wiggins and Greg Williams. Other contest winners included the Tom Kypreos for the Closest to the Pin, Gor Brown and Pound Town Rudensky for the Putting Contest, Anthony Mavromaras for the Dove Race, Meeyun Colomvakos for the Closest to the pin (women), Bob Gendron for the Longest Drive Men, and Helen Kypreos for the Longest Drive Women.

Those who were unable to participate in the Golf Charity event were asked to consider sponsoring the event that hopes to continue annually and raise funds for worthy causes. Many thanks to the Brother Tom Noitsis of Eurovintage for sponsoring the Alpha Estate wines.
